MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Amy, 15, had always gotten straight As in school, and her parents were extremely upset when she got a B on her report card.

"If I fail in what I do," Amy told her parents, "I fail in what I am."

The message was part of Amy's suicide note.

Dr. Darold Treffert, director of the Winnebago Mental Health Institute at Oshkosh, Wis., places part of the blame for a sharp increase in teen-age suicides on what he calls "The American Fairy Tale."

He says the number of teen-age suicides in the United States has tripled in the last decade, to an estimated 30 a day, and that more than half the patients in the nation's psychiatric hospitals are under age 21.

He says the "fairy tale" has five themes: that more possessions mean more happiness, that a person who does or produces more is more important, that everyone must belong and identify with some larger group, that perfect mental

"For some, the American Fairy Tale ends in suicide or psychiatric hospitals, but for countless others, it never ends at all," Treffert said during an interview Tuesday.

He said millions of Americans are plagued throughout their lives by a gnawing emptiness or meaninglessness expressed not as a fear of what may happen to them, but rather as a fear that nothing will happen to them.

He said Americans must stop evaluating themselves according to what they own or what they have done and learn to accept and cope with various mental and emotional problems.

"A whole generation has come to feel that it is un-American to experience any of these emotions," he said.

He says parents should avoid trying to make their children live up to the standards of the "fairy tale," and treat them as individuals, as people rather than possessions.

Treffert, who says he has been involved in suicide cases with children as young as 11, said parents should not try to push their children into doing certain accepted things.

Jobless rate spiraling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly one million more Americans filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the first full week of 1975, the Labor Department said today, signalling a big jump in the nation's unemployment rate for January.

The department said 970,200 new claims were filed in the week ended Jan. 11. That is an increase of 289,000 over the previous week and the highest in any week since unemployment compensation was first paid in 1937 during the great depression.

Other states reporting big increases included: Michigan, up 40,100; California, 29,400; Tennessee, 21,500; Pennsylvania, 15,300; Illinois, 13,700; and Missouri, 12,900.

Rail workers reach tentative agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads have reached tentative agreements on new contracts with three unions, paving the way for a possible breakthrough on an industrywide settlement, sources said today.

Negotiations are continuing with the sheet metal workers union in an effort to avert a strike scheduled to begin Friday against the Union Pacific railroad and four other major carriers.

Under the contracts, railroad workers who currently average $5.44 an hour, would receive a total wage increase of 23.5 per cent, with a 10 per cent boost immediately and an additional 5 per cent in October, and the remainder spread over the following two years. In addition, sources said improvements in the health and welfare plan, a new company-paid dental program and a tenth paid holiday along with the cost-of-living increases would bring the total package to 40.5 per cent.

Bulletin

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss authorities, in the most radical move yet to halt the influx of foreign funds, today boosted to a near prohibitive level the tax on all money newly deposited from abroad.

A communique by the Swiss National Bank said a "negative interest" on funds newly deposited by nonresidents would be increased from an annual 12 to 40 per cent.

The surprise action came hours after the U.S. dollar plummeted to a historic low against the franc in spite of support buying by the national bank.

Propeller trouble halts convoy

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Phnom Penh's first supply convoy in a month was reported stalled by propeller trouble 44 miles southeast of the Cambodian capital today. Two tugs towing barges loaded with a total of about 4,000 tons of ammunition were trying to make the run up the Mekong River from South Vietnam with the protection of T28 fighter planes, helicopter gunships and navy gunboats. A military source said one tug fouled its propeller and was beached 12 miles south of Neak Luong while workmen made repairs.

Escapee believed to be arsonist

MONTREAL (AP) — Police investigating the mass murder of 13 people in a Montreal nightclub think an escaped convict named Richard Blass may have been involved. But apparently they have no concrete evidence pointing to him. The police are trying to determine if there is any connection between the wholesale killing in the Gargantua Club Monday night and the mob-style killing of two men in the same club last October. They think the killer or killers Monday night might have been eliminating witnesses to the October slaying. Blass, who escaped from a Montreal penitentiary a week before that killing was suspected of it and is still at large.

Soviets complaining about temps

MOSCOW (AP) — Intourist, the Soviet tourist agency, says winters in the Soviet Union are "fairy-like, with bright sunshine, sparkling snowflakes and dry frost." But not this one. "The weather in the middle of winter looks more like April," complained Tass, the Soviet news agency. For several days in early January, the temperature in Moscow dropped to a few degrees below zero Fahrenheit. But the rest of the month it has hovered around the freezing point. The low teens is usual for January.

Sleeping pigs being studied

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Doctors are studying sleeping pigs in an effort to learn why so many sudden, fatal human heart attacks begin while the victim is in bed fast asleep. Studies with pigs have found that the irregular heartbeats which warn of an imminent fatal heart attack are most likely while sleep is deepest. The findings were reported by Dr. Henry McIntosh of Baylor College of Medicine of Houston, Tex., at an American Heart Association science writers forum.

Slagle resigns post

Philip Slagle, 503 Good St., today said he has resigned as a member of the Lee County Board because State's Atty. Patrick Ward has ruled he is in conflict of interest because Slagle and Son was awarded a contract to print the county year book.

The question came up at the Jan. 14 meeting of the board and was referred to the state's attorney.

Slagle was elected Nov. 5 to his first term as a county board member.

Country lawyer thrust into House leadership

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A self-styled country lawyer who hails from one of the wealthiest counties in the nation has been thrust from legislative obscurity to the speakership of the Illinois House.

William A. Redmond, 65, a Bensenville Democrat, needed Republican help Tuesday to collect the minimum of 89 votes needed to win the powerful post.

Redmond's election on the 93rd ballot after two weeks of political backbiting and in-party fighting, ended the longest battle for the speakership in Illinois history.

Police nab bank robber

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Police waiting outside a Rockford bank Tuesday grabbed a 31-year-old man as he walked out with a bag of money he got by pretending his pocketed hand was a gun.

Police said Jerome C. Strobbe walked into the American National Bank with the collar of his parka partly hiding his face. They said he pointed his leadership team today or Thursday.

Redmond had represented his suburban Chicago district for 16 years without winning a leadership position or an important committee chairmanship. He is the Democratic chairman of DuPage County, which the Almanac of American Politics lists as one of the wealthiest in the nation. Ironically, it was the vote of freshman Rep. LeRoy VanDyne, a Joliet Democrat, that pushed Redmond's total high enough to win.

his finger at a teller as if it were a pistol and demanded a paper bag filled with currency.

Bank employees activated a silent burglar alarm, which brought police outside the bank before Strobbe got out the door. He was charged with robbery.

Bank officials declined to say how much money was in the bag.

—Walker proposes $4.1 billion construction program—

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker proposed today a massive recession-fighting state program of construction that if approved by the General Assembly could eventually cost as much as $4.1 billion in state funds.

In a written message to the legislature, Walker outlined a two-year program that he said would involve about $1.9 billion in new projects and accelerated work on about $2.2 billion worth of construction projects already planned.

In brief, the Walker plan calls for:

- Widening and resurfacing highways
- Replacing bridges
- Building new schools
- Building three new state parks
- Building mental-health centers
- Improving airports and railroad stations
- Financing pollution-control projects
- Financing construction of new homes and apartments

The specific locations of the proposed projects will be announced later, the governor said.

Walker said he would call a special session of the General Assembly to pass the legislation necessary to implement portions of his proposal. He said he would discuss with legislative leaders a date for the beginning of this special session, but said he hoped it would start by next month.

The governor briefed reporters on the proposal Tuesday night and scheduled a flying tour of several Illinois cities Thursday to explain the plan.

The wide-ranging program is intended to boost drastically the level of construction in Illinois in the next two years and thus pump more money into the economy and create jobs, the governor said.

"By advancing the construction timetable on these projects, the economy will be helped now, people will be employed by private industry now and needed projects will be built at costs which, because of continuing inflation, are significantly lower now than they will be in the future," Walker said.

The plan announced by the governor would be financed mostly by the sale of bonds, both general-obligation and revenue types, which will spread the cost over the next several decades. Bonds are sold periodically by the state, as authorized by the General Assembly, to finance projects with a useful life of many years, such as buildings and highways.

Of the new projects planned, about $1 billion worth will be financed by general-obligation bonds which are paid back with tax money, the governor said. The remainder would be funded from revenue bonds which are repaid by the user of the facility.

"If we tighten our belt on operating expenses, the accelerated building program will not require an increase in any state tax," Walker assured lawmakers in his message.

Budget Director Hal Hovey said as a general rule by the time a 25-year general-obligation bond is paid off the state has paid about 70 per cent of the principal in interest.

The governor was unable to specify how much money would actually be pumped into the state's economy over the next two years if the program is approved.

Under existing bond authorization, the state has been selling about $250 million worth of general-obligation bonds each year. However, Hovey said Illinois could increase that figure by several hundred million dollars and not jeopardize the high end rating which qualifies the state for lower interest rates.

Walker's proposal asks the legislature to expand and alter the existing bond programs to provide money for the new programs and accelerated construction.

Walker asked lawmakers to authorize his administration to:

- Sell $565 million in new transportation bonds to widen and resurface highways, improve bridges, rehabilitate airport and railroad facilities and construct recreational bikeways throughout the state.
- Sell an additional $523 million in Capital Development and School Construction bonds. Of this, $375 million would go for state help to local school districts for construction. The remainder would be used for other capital projects such as mental health facilities, prisons, hospitals and university buildings and new state parks.
- Sell $600 million in new revenue bonds through the Illinois Housing Development Authority for construction of new multi-family and single-family housing units throughout the state.
- Sell $250 million in industrial pollution revenue bonds for loans to the state's businesses for installation of pollution-control equipment.

—Sell $25 million in Illinois Industrial Development Authority revenue bonds to be used for loans for industrial plant expansion throughout the state. Also planned was accelerated work on existing projects such as supplemental freeways, a state office building in Chicago, the Loop Junior College in Chicago, a new campus for the East St. Louis Community College and civic centers in Rockford, Peoria, Aurora, Springfield and the East St. Louis area.

In addition to the amending and expansion of the state's bond programs, Walker also asked the General Assembly to pass other laws he said would speed up the flow of money into the economy. He urged lawmakers to:

- Push an Emer-

Ford did not take on deficit spenders

By RONALD REAGAN

It is clear from the President's State of the Union message and his tax proposals that preceded it that he has decided not to tackle head-on the powerful groups that have a vested interest in Big Government and deficit spending.

While his tax cut proposals will—at first—be welcome news to many Americans, and may provide a genuine psychological lift to public opinion regarding the economy, I fear there will be a heavy price to pay some months later when the resulting federal deficits steal those tax cuts back through renewed inflation.

Though he did call on Congress to put a moratorium on all new spending programs (except for domestic energy production), he did not insist upon cuts in the existing and proposed federal budgets. This amounts to a sharp retreat from his pledge of last August for a balanced budget by 1976. In fact, the result of the newly proposed program will be a deficit of some $30 billion this fiscal year and $45 billion in 1975-76. Given the past track record of federal forecasting, the final figures could end up much higher.

It has taken the experience of the average American family in a few recent months to prove that the Keynesian theory that inflation-begets-prosperity is bankrupt. Today it begets recession.

Unaccompanied by federal spending cuts, the President's tax proposals rest on the assumption that you and your neighbors will use the money to go out and buy refrigerators, automobiles and other products. If everyone does, production and employment go up, at least temporarily. Certainly, putting money back into the pockets of those who earned it cannot be faulted. But, there is no certainty that, after the frightening inflation of the last few months, people will want to do anything other than hide it under a mattress or in a safe deposit box.

In 1972, the economy was sluggish. The administration's response was to persuade the Federal Reserve Board to loosen the money supply, and thus credit. That produced what looked like instant prosperity, but its real result more than a year later was greatly aggravated inflation. Memories are short.

It was this inflation that brought on today's recession. "Pump priming," in the form of tax cuts without spending cuts, will only bring on steeper inflation a few months from now.

A major cause of inflation is the government spending more money than it takes in. Already, we, the taxpayers, are paying more than $30 billion a year in interest on the national debt. To the extent that it pays interest, the government has less to spend on defense and domestic programs.

Bankrupt though it is (and a private business in similar condition would be so declared) the federal government will keep on running by going into competition with businesses and individuals for the limited amount of capital available in order to pay its bills.

Ultimately, you, the consumer, will pay for it in the increased prices you'll pay. That's inflation.

Two basic remedies to this problem were missing from the President's message. First, he should ask Congress to curb the spending appetite of the programs of vested interests, such as those of the educationists, hospital builders (we have a surplus of beds), city and state grants, foundation grants and subsidies to various businesses and industries. It is time to gore some sacred oxen.

Second, he should insist that we "index" individual income tax rates by tying them to the cost of living index so when you receive a pay raise (to cope with inflation) you aren't robbed of it automatically by being thrown into a higher tax bracket as a result.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

In the near future (possibly within two weeks) our State Senators and Representatives will vote on the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).

And, being rightfully concerned for the proper treatment of our nation's women, I definitely side with "STOP ERA." Quoting from "STOP ERA" facts, this Amendment "will not give women any rights but it will take away many rights they now have. This is why Nebraska and Tennessee have rescinded their previous ratifications. ERA will not give women equal pay for equal work. The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972 already requires this. ERA will not give women full educational opportunities. The Education Amendments of 1972 already require this. ERA will not make it easier for women to get credit. The Depository Institutions Amendments Act of 1974 already requires this."

The text of this Amendment reads:

"Section 1. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

"Section 2. The congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

"Section 3. This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

It looks innocent enough, however, Dan Smoot, former assistant to the late J. Edgar Hoover, says in his article "Reject Or Rescind The ERA," "... the innocent facade is easily pierced by one question: If women, as a group, are actually abused because of any law existing anywhere in the United States, why not change the law, instead of amending the Constitution to give the federal government jurisdiction in family affairs and in relationships between men and women? A few women with personal problems—who do not like being women, and want to be treated like men—may enjoy life more if the Equal Rights Amendment is adopted; but women as a group will lose a great deal and gain nothing." Further on in his article, Mr. Smoot says, "Degradation of women and the disintegration of our civilization are the real objectives of ERA proponents, many of whom are Communists."

If what has already been said does not convince some people that the ERA is, as Kenneth W. Miller stated in a letter (to me) last year, "poor legislation," then maybe just a few following questions will: "Should 18-year-old girls be required to register for the draft and be subject to military induction in future wars and national emergencies (just like 18-year-old boys)?"

"Should women (including mothers) be assigned to military combat and warships equally with men (even no civilized country does this, not even Israel which has a manpower shortage)?"

"Should wives have the equal (50 per cent) financial obligation to support their spouses (under criminal penalties, just like husbands)?"

"Should women in industry be deprived of legal protections against being involuntarily assigned to heavy-lifting, strenuous, and dangerous men's jobs?"

"Should wives not employed outside the home be deprived of their present right to receive Social Security benefits based on their husband's earnings?"

"Should prisons and reform schools be sex-integrated?"

If your answers are NO to these questions, then you are opposed to the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) because that is what it will do.

Let's make sure the ERA is rejected. The best way possible is to write the following people: Representatives Calvin Schuneman, Joe Ebbesen, Richard Mautino and Senator David Shapiro—State Capitol, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Sincerely,
G. L. Carl

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Art collector Norman Simon is in hot water again. This time his $1 million 1973 purchase of the famous Nataraja bronze idol from India involves Los Angeles, New York and London lawsuits and an intense Scotland Yard-U.S. Customs Bureau search for the sculpture.

The issue involves a UNESCO treaty convention, signed in 1970 but not yet legally implemented, concerning the control of the international traffic in cultural artifacts. And the respected Art Dealers Association of America, along with the whole teeming art world, is now involved.

This is a second go-around. Collector Simon bought ($3 million) in 1972, and exhibited, the Raphael "Madonna." But it was unsigned. Raphael copied his teacher, Perugino. Superb 16th-century artist Andres del Sarto, in turn, copied Raphael. He did so anonymously. Del Sarto's pupils, in turn, did the same thing.

Sir Peter Paul Rubens, employing many craftsmen and using mass-production methods, insisted that all the pictures painted in his picture factory were his own. Rubens signed them. Francisco de Goya was a police informer. Often a fugitive, his life was frequently too endangered to sign his true name or any name at all.

Art experts usually treat Vincent van Gogh as two separate personalities, one before his breakdown and stay at St. Remy, one after. But Van Gogh's imitators in both periods constantly plague them today.

Rembrandt's many remarkable pupils copied him. Immortal Titian copied his teacher, Giorgione. But Titian lived to be 99 and never stopped painting, whereas Giorgione died at 33 with only 10 paintings uncontestedly attributed to him. Today a Giorgione, worth even more than a Titian, would approach the record $6 million that Washington's National Gallery paid for Leonardo da Vinci's "Ginevra del Benci" portrait.

The international furor about Mr. Simon's "Madonna" ended when it proved to be an authentic Raphael. But the worst perplexity comes with the magnificent artists who are of themselves a mystery.

The record price for a print is $89,000 for "The Woman's Bath" by an artist identified only as Master P.M. It is one of only five known to exist. Master P.M. certainly flourished in Cologne, Germany, in the late 1400s, but that is all that is known about him.

At this point enter the swindlers. And their entrapment of a dupe is relatively simple:

The first thing a swindling ring does is to equip the fake painting with documentation, usually starting the fake picture on its way at a small-town auction in France, Italy, Portugal or Spain. It forges a certificate which testifies that the fake is, say, a Renoir. Prolific, erratic, limping, rheumatic Renoir painted about 6,000—some very fine, some very bad—before he died.

The swindling ring then exhibits the "certified" Renoir in the United States. This gets the fake into gallery catalogs, further documenting the authenticity.

Ring-employed art critics help honest critics to be wrong about the picture, and having carefully (and expensively) staged the auction-exhibition-catalogs-critics scenario, the swindling ring is ready for the pigeon.

This is the kind of operation that cost Dallas oilman millionaire Algur H. Meadows $1 million for 44 fakes.

On the detection side, a subtle internal process can betray the forger. When colors age they blend chemically. Notable examples would be the resulting limpid placidity of a Carot landscape or the absence of deep-green, dark-blue and garnet-red or the glare in Gauguin's Brittany period, or Correggio's wonderful harmony of light and shade. X-rays and several instrument-and-chemical detection methods are the clenchers.

Famous collection examiner Klaus Perls, former president of the Art Dealers Association of America, claims that still another feature betrays the forger; a lifetime of familiarity with a certain master lets the best specialists detect a fake almost instantly.

Says Mr. Perls: "There's an emotional response. The faker will let his own personality creep in somehow and it just isn't the personality of the artist he is forging."

Predicting earthquakes

Bit by bit, science is getting closer to being able to predict earthquakes.

According to Dr. V. E. McKelvey, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, an important milestone was reached last Thanksgiving when an earthquake of magnitude 5.2 on the Richter Scale occurred between the San Andreas and Calaveras faults about 10 miles north of Hollister, Calif.

Survey scientists at the National Center for Earthquake Research at Menlo Park, Calif., had anticipated this quake from a number of significant changes they had observed weeks before in the earth's crust and magnetic field. This was the first time, says McKelvey, that such a variety of "precursor phenomena" had been observed for a single earthquake.

He emphasizes, however, that the ability to detect similar telltale clues in the future is presently limited to that area. Also, much more research and much more extensive installation of geophysical instruments must be accomplished before earthquake predictions will be useful in planning for public safety.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The economists are happy. Despite their talk of fine tuning, they've never had a clear fix on how to handle inflation. Talk with four economists will net you five theories.

But they do know what to do about a recession: Spend. And keep on spending until we are out of the slump.

Here they are in agreement. But they're wrong. There's a major bug in that theory in the 1975 economic bogdown. Government deficit spending, more money in our pockets from tax breaks, added unemployment benefits and public service jobs will not solve our problem. Without increased production of basics, these actions will merely drive prices skyward. We'll compete more heavily for what's available. Which will increase inflation and put us back to where we are now.

For the new buying almost certainly will be sensibly centered in the day-to-day essentials—which are even now soaking up our funds. The unemployed, given extended payments or public-service jobs, and the employed, given a tax break, will not rush out to buy an expensive new house or car. They'll want to see daylight first.

Our troubles have a deeper bass. Basic production capacity over the years has not increased sufficiently to employ all U.S. workers, or to supply the increase in demand as more Americans moved into the middle class. This insufficiency would exist even if the economy were surging, which it certainly is not doing today.

There are many reasons for this failure to build production capacity and this slower-than-desirable increase in productivity. In part it has been because of a lack of confidence in our future economic growth, in part because of senseless government regulation, in part because bigness has created complacency and in part because the new breed of big managers are bureaucrats who are unwilling to take chances.

There has been a hefty shift of investment in new production overseas by American companies, stimulated by a variety of tax incentives. That is, for years we have exported jobs and have simultaneously failed to create them in sufficient numbers here at home. Without this continually expanded and up graded capacity, an increase in demand cannot possibly be matched by the requisite increase in the output of essentials.

For curing a recession, or an inflation, there is no substitute for increasing investment in basic industry and for stimulating productivity and new products in order to put more men and women into production.

Ideas are not in short supply. Inventive scientists and engineers are coming up with more improvements and feasible new concepts than ever before in history. But there's a shortage of risk capital. There's a reluctance to take chances.

A good deal more of our thinking, therefore, must go into eradicating barriers.

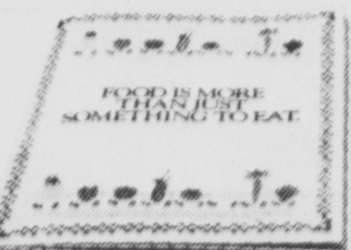

Only in this way will we be able to transform more of our consumers into producers, convert more of our unemployed, underemployed and "unemployables" into workers.

Men and women out of work through no fault of their own need assistance. And we all deserve a tax break. But we should not kid ourselves into thinking such patchwork will end the recession—though, like all recessions, it will probably run out of steam eventually regardless of whatever mistakes this administration makes.

Feedlot cattle down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Jan. 1 inventory of feedlot cattle in 23 states totaled about 9.6 million head, down 26 per cent from a year earlier and the smallest at the start of a new year in a decade, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

The 23 states, which produce about 95 per cent of the nation's grain-fed beef cattle, produced slightly more than six million head for market during the last quarter of 1974. That was 14 per cent fewer than in the same period a year earlier and 18 per cent fewer than in the fourth quarter of 1972.

Placement of new cattle in feeding pens in the last quarter was down 20 per cent from October-December 1973 and 32 per cent below the fourth quarter of 1972, the department said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two advisory committees representing major farm commodities will meet at the Agriculture Department next month to discuss the production and marketing situation affecting those crops in the year ahead.

The panels are the 38-member National Advisory Committee on Cotton and a 37-member committee representing wheat, feed grains and cotton. Officials said Monday the two groups will meet at USDA Feb. 12-13.

BETTER LETTUCE through X-rays is the idea of an experimental mechanical harvester developed by Agriculture Department engineers at Salinas, Calif. A small medical-type unit, located directly behind the uplifted wheel in foreground, monitors lettuce for maturity. When a head of proper diameter and density passes between the X-ray and a photodiode, a signal activates a knife that slices off the head and starts it through the harvester, which has a 15-man crew and can harvest up to 400 cartons per hour. Fifteen men harvesting by hand turn out 180 to 225 cartons per hour.

Twice as much money put in U.S. bonds since WWII

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks, corporate bonds, mutual funds and even savings institutions had a hard time attracting savers and investors in 1974, but not the U.S. Savings Bonds program. It had one of its best years.

More than twice as much money now is invested in Savings Bonds than at the end of World War II, when the program began. The total at the beginning of 1975 was $63.8 billion, $3 billion more than a year earlier.

Treasury officials aren't certain why the bonds have retained their appeal while the public lost confidence in many other investments. Some people credit the 6 per cent interest rate, some the effectiveness of payroll deduction plans.

The troubled economic situation also is cited, and so is the power of the U.S. government. Many people appear to feel that government obligations, such as bonds are the most secure investment of all, more so even than gold.

At the very time gold was about to go on sale for the first time in 41 years, sales of bonds surged. In the fourth quarter alone some $6.86 billion were sold, the greatest for any fourth quarter since 1945.

The bond program hasn't always fared so well. In the late 1960s, redemptions exceeded sales month after month until federal officials got unstuck and realized the 4.5 per cent rate had to be raised.

Both Series E bonds, which are sold at a discount and redeemed at face value, and Series H, which are sold at full face value and pay interest every six months, now offer a 6 per cent rate.

Even at that, bondholders literally lose money so long as the inflation rate remains higher. But the security, and the fact that on the more popular Series E bonds the tax on interest can be deferred, seems to offset the disadvantage.

The deferment is frequently used by individuals who buy bonds for retirement. Instead of paying income taxes on the interest earned each year, they defer payment until the bonds are redeemed. If all goes well, they won't cash-in their holdings until retirement, when they're in a lower tax category.

Haig to pay for transporting dog

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. has decided to reimburse the government for transporting his dog Duncan 130 miles from Frankfurt to Stuttgart, a spokesman for the U.S. European command said today.

The spokesman said the former White House chief of staff had agreed to pay $46.92 for the 260-mile round trip by two enlisted men in an Army staff car after hearing of the incident for the first time Tuesday. Haig also ordered "counseling of individuals concerned," including the colonel who authorized the trip, and investigation of "related possible abuses," the spokesman said.

The command acknowledged earlier that the car had been used to bring the dog from Frankfurt airport to Stuttgart. But a spokesman said the general was unaware of the arrangement at the time.

USDA to rule on dairy price hike request soon

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is expected to decide soon, perhaps by early next week, on a request by dairy farmers for a boost in minimum prices paid them for Class I milk sold in federal milk marketing-order areas.

As outlined at a hearing Monday, the proposal would prevent a 35-cent decline next month in the minimum prices farmers are guaranteed under marketing-order regulations. The decrease will be automatic unless USDA acts to prevent it.

Judson P. Mason, representing the National Milk Producers Federation, said "there is urgent need" to increase prices of Class I milk sold for drinking and other fluid purposes so that they are in line with a new basic milk price support level announced earlier this month.

"The patience of dairy farmers has been sorely tested by adversities," Mason told the hearing. "The milk production trend has been downward. The exodus of farmers from the dairy production business is continuing."

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz on Jan. 3 announced an increase in milk price supports, effective the following day, to $7.24 per 100 pounds of manufacturing milk sold to make butter, cheese and other products from $6.57 which had been in effect since last spring.

But the increase only affected manufacturing milk immediately. Under federal rules, Class I minimums are set after a two-month lag based on the average price of manufacturing milk sold in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The so-called M-W price average has been declining. In November, used to compute January Class I minimums, it was $6.76 per 100 pounds. And in December, which normally would be used in the Class I formula for February, it was $6.41 per 100 pounds.

The federation's original proposal called for substitution of a flat $7.30 rate in the formula to replace the normal M-W average.

In its presentation Monday, the federation said another alternative could involve the suspension of the two-month lag used in setting Class I minimum prices for February and March, and letting the M-W average of the preceding month take effect.

That alternative also would effectively suspend the December M-W average and prevent the 35-cent decline which otherwise would occur for Class I milk.

If the full $7.30 formula floor price proposed originally by the federation is allowed, the February Class I average minimum would be about $9.40 per 100 pounds of fluid milk. If the December M-W average is used, it will be about $8.51 per 100 pounds, compared with a national average minimum of $8.86 this month.

2nd murder adds fuel to furlough plan

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles McKinney has become the second convict charged since November with committing a murder while on furlough.

McKinney, 30, was charged Tuesday with fatally shooting Fletcher Shamberger, 31, of Chicago in a South Side tavern while on a three-day furlough from the Lockport Work Release Center. He was serving a four-to six-year sentence for armed robbery.

McKinney's indictment added fuel to the debate between Cook County State's Atty Bernard Carey and state corrections Director Allyn Sielaff over the furlough program.

Carey told reporters in Chicago that his office had objected six times to furloughs or paroles for McKinney. He criticized Sielaff for having granted McKinney frequent furloughs.

Carey recently said that his office is preparing proposed legislation sharply restricting furloughs for imprisoned felons. He said the legislation would seriously limit who can receive a furlough and would restore the intent of the General Assembly's original 1969 furlough act.

Despite the indictment, Sielaff continued to defend the program. He said that convicts in the furlough program have fewer problems than those on parole. He also complained about the publicity given the McKinney case, saying, "Let's not convict this guy before he's tried. Let's give him some benefit of justice at this point."

Carey, however, said, "The McKinney case makes one wonder about that 99.4 success figure that Sielaff is constantly quoting."

The next most recent man charged with committing a murder while on furlough was Robert Hall, 31, who was accused of killing his ex-wife in Chicago.

Guitar lessons

Beginning guitar lessons will be offered at the Dixon YMCA beginning Feb. 5 and ending March 26. The lessons are Wednesday evenings, 7-7:30 p.m. for youth, and 7:30-8 p.m. for adults. Class size is limited to six students per class.

Instructing the class will be Mary Ann Lawson.

Registration fees are $8 for Y members and $16 for non-members.

Registration for all YMCA winter programs begins Monday at 6 p.m. for YMCA members and Tuesday, 9 a.m., for non-members as well as Y members. For more information please contact the Dixon YMCA Program Dept. at 284-3312.

Profile of a House speaker

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — William A. Redmond had fought some of his toughest contests on the foam rubber wrestling mats at Marquette University and as Democratic chairman of one of the most solidly Republican counties in Illinois.

Then came the marathon struggle that ended Tuesday when he was elected speaker of the Illinois House.

Redmond, 65, who admits he has had to take several trips to the "fat doctor" in recent years when he packed 200-plus pounds on his 5-foot-5 frame, recalls one match he fought in 1930 at Marquette. His opponent was a lad named Joseph McCarthy.

"I had him ready for a body slam, but I couldn't do it," he said.

"I thought one of the mats might slip, he'd land on the concrete and get hurt," Redmond continued.

The match ended in a tie, and McCarthy asked why Redmond let him go.

"He looked at me and said he would have slammed me if he had the chance," Redmond laughed.

Redmond went on to law school at Northwestern, became a lawyer and served 16 years in the House from the 40th District west of Chicago.

McCarthy became a U.S. senator and started his hunt for Communists as head of a Senate committee.

In 1973, Redmond got into another fight and this time he was opposed by the forces of newly-elected Gov. Daniel

Deaths and Funerals

Mary Binkley

Mary Z. Binkley, 84, 810 Jackson Ave., died Tuesday. She was born Aug. 29, 1890, in Hagerstown, Md., the daughter of Iverson and Alice (Hause) Jones. She married Floyd Binkley on Oct. 11, 1919, in Hagerstown, Md. Mrs. Binkley was a member of the West Branch Church of the Brethren, Polo.

She was preceded in death by her husband, four brothers and three sisters.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. George (Virginia) Roberts, Polo, and Mrs. Alice Miller, Dixon; one sister, Mrs. Alice Reecher, Hagerstown, Md.; four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

A memorial fund has been established.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at Chapel Hill Funeral Home with burial in Chapel Hill Memorial Park. The Rev. Merle Hawbecker will officiate.

There will be no visitation.

Gordon Emmole

Gordon Emmole, 57, 112 Ashland Ave., died Tuesday at VA Hospital, Iowa City, Iowa, following a long illness.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Preston Funeral Home.

Walker, also a Democrat.

Walker backed a candidate against Redmond for the party chairmanship of DuPage County.

Redmond became a contender for the speakership shortly after the Nov. 5 elections when he and two other Democrats announced within a week of each other they wanted to stop the election of Democratic leader Clyde Choate of Anna.

But it wasn't until the 40-some loyalists of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley threw their support from Choate to Redmond on the 39th ballot that the Bensenville lawyer became the frontrunner for the speakership.

He sweated through 55 ballots before seven Republicans swung to his side and gave him the bare minimum amount of votes he needed to win the powerful post.

A gardener, Redmond starts his plants in February or March in his basement which is specially equipped with fluorescent lights.

Redmond was one of only a few Democrats who in 1959 refused to vote for Paul Powell, a compromise candidate for speaker and one of Choate's mentors from Southern Illinois.

Redmond also played basketball for Marquette in the 1930s and for the Milwaukee Badgers, a professional team.

He was born in Chicago, served in the U.S. Naval Reserve and then moved to Bensenville where he served as village attorney and school board attorney.

The Liquor Commission also handed down a two-day suspension to Jerome Hill, alderman of Burbank, in another conflict of interest case. Hill was ordered to give up his aldermanic position or resign as president of the Jerry's Food and Liquor, Alsip.

Edgar Vanneman, mayor of Evanston, was later ordered by the commission to resign his mayoral post or give up his officer position with the Brunswick Corp. in another conflict of interest case.

The commission handed down the suspension, for Feb. 24 and 25, against actions of Mautino, former alderman of Spring Valley, Mautino, secretary-treasurer of the Mautino Distributing Company resigned from his position as alderman during the course of the commission's hearings.

CHICAGO (AP) — A nationwide study of two drugs widely used to prevent recurrence of heart attacks has found that they do not prolong life.

The drugs, clofibrate and niacin, are prescribed for persons who have had heart attacks and have been thought to reduce the chance of recurrence by reducing the level of cholesterol and other fatty substances in the blood.

The National Heart and Lung Institute sponsored the study, involving 53 clinical centers and 8,341 male patients, ages 30-64, who had suffered myocardial infarction. Almost all who survived were followed for at least five years, and some for more than eight.

The results are reported in the Jan. 27 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Northwestern University medical school, who headed the project.

Stamler, a heart specialist, emphasized in an interview that the findings should not be

Ottis Bobo

ROCHELLE—Ottis Odon Bobo, 54, 402 N. Third St., died Tuesday at Rochelle Community Hospital.

He was born Feb. 7, 1920, in Tupelo, Miss., the son of Austin and Jessie (Young) Bobo. He was a member of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church and an employee of Caron International.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lloyd (Brenda) Powell, Rochelle; two sons, James, Monroe Center, and Donald, Rochelle; one sister, Mrs. Clarence (Lillie) Brothers, Lincoln, Neb.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at Cluts Funeral Home with the Rev. Amos Johnson, pastor of First Baptist Church, Creston, officiating.

Burial will be in Trinity Memory Gardens.

Visitation is from 7 to 9 p.m. today in the funeral home.

Don Van Natta

Don Van Natta, 39, Drexel, Mo., died of a heart attack Monday, Jan. 13.

Mr. Van Natta was born in Amboy on Jan. 1, 1936, the son of the late Ray and Verne Spencer Van Natta. He was the grandson of Mrs. Ira Van Natta, Amboy.

The dog was taken last October from Frankfurt to Stuttgart by two enlisted men who made a 260-mile round trip to get him. The incident occurred when Haig became commander of allied forces in Europe.

Haig said the trip had been authorized by a subordinate. He said he heard of the incident for the first time after the disclosure Monday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., that the government had paid for the trip.

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Former Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida has lost a bid for dismissal of an indictment charging him with bribery, conspiracy and perjury in an influence peddling case.

In a brief, no-comment order Tuesday, the 5th U.S. District Court of Appeals refused to dismiss the indictment.

Gurney, a Republican, contended that the federal grand jury that indicted him in Jacksonville, Fla., was not a fair cross-section of the community.

Gurney, 59, and six others were indicted July 10 in an alleged scheme to collect kickbacks from Florida contractors.

1974 was growth year for DNB

The Dixon National Bank held its annual stockholders' meeting on Tuesday at the Ramada Inn, commencing with a luncheon. Donald R. Lovett, president and chairman of the board of the Dixon National Bank, reported that 1974 was another year of growth—both in deposits and in earnings. Deposits increased $3 million with all of this increase invested in the community, with loans increasing approximately $2½ million or 15 per cent over 1973.

Lovett reported new record income before security transactions of $980,972.16 or $19.62 per share, which was $171,692.25, or $3.43 per share greater than 1973, the bank's former record year.

He stated that practically all sectors of the economy were displaying weakness as the new year begins and that the current recession is thus likely to be the longest and the deepest since the 1930's. He stated optimism about Dixon since it is not experiencing as much of this downturn as is the nation as a whole and indicated the Dixon National Bank is well prepared to meet the challenging years ahead and would continue to play an important role in the Dixon community.

The stockholders then elected the following directors: Robert E. Grissett, Walter C. Knack Jr., Donald R. Lovett, Richard E. Lovett, Luke R. Morin, Leo B. Miller, and Warren E. Walder.

Following the stockholders' meeting, the directors held their meeting and elected the following officers: D. R. Lovett, chairman of the board and president; Leo B. Miller, vice president and secretary of the board; J. P. Green, vice president; W. E. Reigle, assistant vice president and cashier; R. E. Lovett, assistant vice president and trust officer; Eileen W. Law, assistant trust officer; Vernon L. DeVries, data processing officer; R. W. Castle, Janice L. Hamill, David E. Harris, John W. Kuster, and Carrol L. Schumacher, assistant cashiers.

Record earnings for City National

The year 1974 was one of record earnings for the City National Bank and Trust Company in Dixon. President Richard S. Durkes, in his report to the stockholders, said earnings amounted to $7.07 per share compared to $4.35 per share in 1973. Durkes said a substantial growth in deposits and loans and the somewhat higher rates during the year were mainly responsible for the record earnings. Dividends declared amounted to $2.20 per share.

During the business meeting held Tuesday at the Nachusa

House, the stockholders elected the following directors for the coming year: Howard Bothe, Patterson Curtis, Richard S. Durkes, Robert Hofmann, Dr. E. S. Murphy, George F. Nichols, Ben D. Shaw and D. M. Tarvin.

The meeting was concluded with Durkes expressing his appreciation for the support of the stockholders, staff and the bank's customers, and a pledge that the bank will continue its efforts to improve the economy of the Dixon area.

Wilcox is being held in Rochelle City Jail.

Burglary probed
ROCHELLE — Northrup King Co., E. Second Ave., reported a burglary to Rochelle Police which occurred sometime Monday or Tuesday.

The building was entered and $28 was taken from desks in the main office and private offices.

Rochelle Police are continuing their investigation.

CHICAGO (AP)—Internal Revenue Service officials are looking for an errant computer which caused thousands of Illinois businessmen to be notified they owe 1973 federal taxes when they don't.

"We're still working on it," said an IRS spokesman here. "It's some programming error and we can't find out what it is."

About 58,000 notices were sent to businessmen this month and many of them contain errors regarding the amount of taxes owed, officials said.

The notices tell businessmen how much of their 1973 unemployment compensation payments they can credit against their federal tax.

In many cases the businessmen were erroneously told they had claimed too large a credit, said Bill Paige, state commissioner of unemployment compensation.

Mrs. Paige said the problem was discovered when excited businessmen started calling her office to complain.

"They were saying, 'the IRS is dunning us for money, what's going on?'" said Mrs. Paige. "And they said, 'we paid our taxes, what's the matter?'"

In one case an employer had a gross federal tax of $3,250 and had claimed a credit of $2,675. But the notice told him he could only claim a credit of $494.

"That is obviously a huge discrepancy for this one employer," said Mrs. Paige.

Mrs. Paige said it is not known how many of the 58,000 notices actually contain errors.

"But there were a large number of errors," she said. "One could assume there might also have been employers who in fact might have owed money who were told they didn't."

The IRS spokesman said a second mailing was made last weekend telling the businessmen in Illinois to ignore the original notices. A few thousand notices were also sent to Iowa but no corrective letter was sent out there.

The state collects the unemployment insurance tax from employers and turns it over to the federal government. Employers are then allowed to credit a certain percentage of the tax against their federal income tax, Mrs. Paige said.

The IRS spokesman said the computer error could lie with data provided to the IRS by the state or with IRS facilities in Kansas City or Martinsburg, W. Va.

He said the mailing was part of a newly instituted compliance program regarding unemployment insurance payments.

Kreider officers announced

Arlan McClain has recently accepted the position as executive director of the Lee County Association for the Handicapped and Kreider Services. During the past five years McClain has served as assistant director in Unit IV at the Dixon State School. Currently he holds a BS in psychology and business administration from Western Illinois University, and is completing work toward a master's degree in community mental health at Northern Illinois University.

McClain is a former resident of Ashton, and he and his wife and daughter live at 317 East Everett St.

J. Ken Price has been promoted to assistant executive director. He has been manager of the Sheltered Workshop at the Kreider Rehabilitation Center since 1972, and will continue in this capacity along with his new duties. Price came to Dixon with General Cable in 1966. He and his wife live at 305 W. Chamberlin St.

Kreider Services, a service agency of Lee County Association for the Handicapped, operates a sheltered work program at Kreider Rehabilitation Center and a work activity program at Truman Center. Both programs are concerned with servicing the handicapped adults of Lee County. Kreider Services is located in the Industrial Park in Dixon.

School board approves Amboy election schedule

AMBOY—Dates pertinent to annual school election were set and advertisement for bids for supplies authorized at the meeting of the Board of Education held Tuesday night at the high school.

The election for members of the Amboy Board of Education will be held from 12 to 7 p.m. April 12, in conjunction with the Sauk Valley College election. Six polling places were designated and Mrs. Nalin Keho was authorized to receive nominating petitions for those seeking election to the board. The terms of Alvin Montavon and Ronald Conderman expire this year.

Donald Skidmore, superintendent, was authorized to seek bids on electrical and lighting supplies for the district for the coming year. He was also instructed to join with Ashton School District and District 271 in seeking bids for ditto and mimeo paper supplies.

Skidmore reported on requirements to provide emergency lighting for the high school and Central School, as required by school safety code in the event of a power failure. A representative of General Electric Co. is presently making a survey of the buildings and the results of this study will be used as a basis for seeking bids on the projects.

The resignation of Edward Dunn, high school industrial arts teacher, was accepted. Dunn will be employed by County Companies Insurance.

A new contract for Ken Klapperich, a recent graduate of University of Wisconsin, Stout, Wis., to teach industrial arts at $8,400 (pro rated) was approved.

New criteria for awarding state grants to school districts for capital development was explained at a recent workshop for school administrators. Skidmore told board members that, under the new rules for determining needs of schools, he felt Amboy possibly would qualify for assistance in renovating of the junior high school building. He has filed certificate of intent to make application for such funds with the state Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. He indicated further meetings will be held on the matter and an opinion on the application for funds could be expected possibly by April.

Skidmore advised the board members to continue with planning for improving the junior high building.

There was a lengthy discussion of insurance coverage for high school football players. Several alternatives used by other schools were reviewed. The matter will be investigated further.

The school presently pays $28 per student participating in football, for coverage only during the football season.

In other business:

—permission was granted to James Mahar to select some junior high school students to participate in a wrestling tournament at Stillman Valley on March 18. The cost to the school district will be $12 entrance fee and transportation. Winners in the tournament will advance to the state tournament at DeKalb.

—bills were approved for payment in the following amounts: $400,125.91, educational fund; $57,096.63, building fund; $58,045.58, transportation fund; $6,801, Illinois Municipal Retirement; and $50,000 from working cash fund, for total of $572,069.36. These amounts include investment of funds as follows: $270,000 for the educational fund; $5,000 for the building fund; $45,000 for the transportation fund; $3,000 for IMRF, and $50,000 in working cash.

Amboy adopts snow plan

AMBOY—Members of the City Council adopted an ordinance to facilitate snow removal in the business district and heard reports on the remodeling of the city hall at the adjourned session held Tuesday night.

The new ordinance provides that there shall be no parking of vehicles on the streets of the business district during the nighttime hours following a one-inch snowfall. Violators will be ticketed with a $10 fine and the vehicles will be towed.

Mayor Kenneth McCracken reported that the city hall was being remodeled to provide additional office space. A doorway is being cut from the mayor's office into the area formerly used as the city jail. The room will be paneled and an air-conditioning unit installed.

Bids opened for creek job

WALNUT—Bids were opened for the debris cleaning of Walnut Creek at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Walnut Monday.

Leonard Brown, township road commissioner, opened bids from George M. Hansen for $28,990 and Frank L. Strader for $30,000. After discussion it was decided to accept the Hansen's bid in the amount of $28,990, subject to approval of the town auditors.

Bills were presented to the board and approved.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 4.

Theft probed

Dixon police are investigating a theft reported Tuesday from the Stewart Truck and Equipment Co., 1204 S. Galena Ave.

Taken in the theft were two tires and rims. The tires were taken from a truck parked behind the building. The value of the articles was undetermined.

Meetings for Methodist circles

Circles of the First United Methodist Church UMW met recently when plans were made for the annual observance of World Day of Prayer March 7 in St. Anne's Catholic Church. March 3-5-11 and 15 were announced as dates for Days of Renewal, and Mrs. William Wolf, UMW president, and Mrs. Harold Huffman will represent the UMW at the March 15 meeting in Franklin Grove.

Mrs. Wolf and her co-hostess, Mrs. C. R. Collins, entertained 15 members and guests of Susanna Circle when Mrs. Wolf presided in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Rodney Fetterolf.

Pledge Cards
Pledge cards were distributed by Mrs. V. E. Benoy, and reports were given by Mrs. C. F. Johnston and Mrs. Fred Miller.

The annual spring luncheon was announced for April 3 in the church when Mrs. Blair Ritter-spach, formerly of Dixon, will be the guest speaker. Hostesses will be members of Susanna, Miriam and Priscilla Circles.

Mrs. Ivan Wallace will serve as chairman of a new Bible study group, which will meet each week for 17 weeks to study the Book of Mark. It was also announced that a Lenten Bible study group will meet on four Thursday nights in the homes of church members.

Mrs. Wolf introduced Mrs. William Cook, who spoke on "Start the Year With Prayer." The speaker listed the elements of prayer as communion, adoration, thanksgiving, confession, petition, intercession and submission.

The next meeting was announced for 9 a.m. Feb. 20 with Mrs. Roland Semetis, 411 E. McKenney St., when Miss Leva Missman will speak on "Religions of the Presidents."

Members of Miriam Circle were guests of Miss Missman and Miss Lorraine Missman when devotions were given by Mrs. Elmer Miller and Mrs. Francis Geiger.

Following a "coffee," Miss Lorraine Missman, chairman, opened a business session by reading an article by Dag Hammarskjold entitled "Looking Ahead," and she also assisted Mrs. Howard Byers in conducting a pledge service.

New program booklets were distributed, and plans were made to contribute towels,

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South was interested in seven after his partner opened the bidding, but settled for six after North showed no kings in response to the Blackwood five notrump.

Then when dummy hit the table South saw that even six was in some jeopardy. There was a sure heart loser and the defenders held four trumps to the queen between them.

An ordinary player would bang down the ace and king of trumps, drop the queen and make the slam, but South was just devious enough to have a plan that might let him something about the trump distribution.

West had opened the king of hearts so South took his ace and led the suit right back. West rose with the queen and shifted to a diamond after East's jack signal. South won with dummy's ace and led the jack of hearts.

South had played rapidly, but East had been thinking right along with South. What was South trying to do? He surely could have pulled trumps before plunking down the jack of hearts, and if he had wanted to set the heart suit up he would have done so by leading a low one, not the jack. So East simply discarded a diamond.

Now South went into a huddle and finally came to the conclusion that East's failure to ruff meant that he held the guarded queen of trumps. South led dummy's nine of spades; took a finesse and lost his slam.

A meeting for Deborah Circle was held in the church parlor when co-hostesses were Mrs. Katherine LeFevre and Mrs. Vernon Massey.

A dessert luncheon was served for 15 members, and Mrs. Dawson Womeldorff, chairman, opened the meeting by reading the words of the song, "We're Here to be Happy."

"Crafters"

A meeting for the "Crafters," a newly organized crafts class for UMW members, was announced for 9:30 a.m. Feb. 4 with Mrs. George Holland, and Mrs. Francis Waytenick gave devotions and also presented a pledge service entitled "Go Tell Everyone."

Mrs. Harold Espy was announced as hostess for the next meeting, and will be assisted by Mrs. Paul Armstrong and Mrs. Frank Heaton.

Mrs. Crawford Thomas was assisted by Mrs. Wendell Drummond in entertaining Naomi Circle at a dessert luncheon and meeting.

Mrs. Thomas, chairman, read a poem from "Girl Talk" to open the business session, and devotions were prepared by Mrs. Paul Miller.

Mrs. Ivan Wallace asked members interested in enrolling in the new Bible study group to contact her, and Mrs. Francis Jennings described how missionary donations were distributed during a pledge service.

Members were asked to save commemorative stamps and Betty Crocker coupons, and the next meeting was planned for Feb. 20 in the church parlor.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to your answer to the 26-year-old woman who had been married four times, had five nervous breakdowns, two children, another on the way, and was considering marriage to a 24-year-old man. Anyone with such a history at 26 must have had a load of personal difficulties which contributed to her marital and emotional breakdowns.

Unless some significant progress has been made in working out these difficulties, it is unrealistic to expect that a fifth marriage would turn out any better than the first four.

Your advice—"Grab him"—seemed totally misdirected. You never even raised any of the important issues, such as: Is the woman receiving ongoing treatment at the present time? Is the man similar to any of her previous husbands (or her father)? Has HE been married before? Does HE have a psychiatric history? Sorry, but you blew it, doll.—A Social Work Student

Dear Student: You are right. I did. Thank you for pointing out the inadequacy of my response. The reader was certainly entitled to a better answer than I gave her, and I appreciate your letting me know it.

Dear Miss Landers: I have been a housekeeper for a wealthy woman for four years, but I am not allowed to answer the door or the telephone. If an appliance is broken, I am not supposed to mention it because such things irritate her. ("They don't make things like they used to.")

I must serve meals seven days a week—breakfast at 8 a.m., lunch at 12:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. If I announce a meal four minutes early I am told, "You are four minutes ahead of schedule."

On days when Madame drinks a little more than usual she doesn't respond to the dinner call until 7:15 or 7:30 p.m. By then the food is dried out. She then complains that it is inedible.

This is a good-paying job, but it is worth the money if I get ulcers from aggravation? What do you advise?—Heading For Loonsville

Dear Heading: Madame is not playing with a full deck. What's more, there is no way one can rationalize with a disturbed person who has the added problem of alcoholism.

Get another job even if it means less money. (Incidentally, honey, nobody should have to work seven days a week. Lincoln freed the slaves in 1863.)

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who really bugs me. Whenever we talk on the phone (which is quite often) our conversations are always interrupted by one or more of her children who have questions that require answers.

when the hostess, Mrs. Denton Tennant, will be assisted by Mrs. Scott Glaze.

Sarah Circle members met for a dessert luncheon with Mrs. Catherine Fisher and her assistants, Mrs. Richard Grobe and Mrs. Jo Van Meter.

Mrs. Van Meter, chairman, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "Today Is Here," by Geraldine Kline, and Mrs. Ernest Topping gave devotions on the UMW theme, "When All Shall Walk Together."

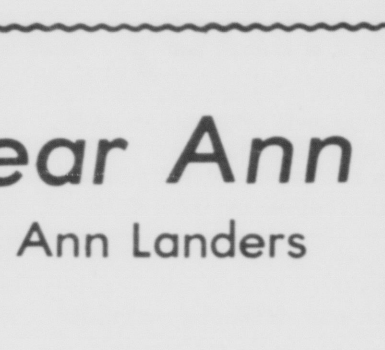

During a pledge service, Mrs. A. N. Boyd was assisted by Mrs. Van Meter, Mrs. Harold Hughes, Mrs. Elsie Warner, Mrs. John Mulnix and Mrs. C. G. Pool, and a "New Year's Meditation" was read by Mrs. Noah Beard.

Mrs. Grobe gave a Scripture reading, and Mrs. Fisher read the "pledge prayer." Mrs. Topping concluded the meeting by reading a poem, "At Day's End," by John Holland, and Mrs. Alfred Tice was announced as hostess for the next meeting on Feb. 20.

Mrs. Marilyn Andrews was hostess to 16 members of Ruth Circle when the chairman, Mrs. David Wigginton, presided.

Mrs. Ralph Pierson conducted a pledge service when all members participated, and Mrs. Wigginton read an article from the magazine, New World Outlook, which explained how mission contributions were used.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Brenner, Mrs. R. D. Aitchison, Mrs. Richard Nicklaus and Mrs. Allen Larsen, and the next meeting was announced for 8 p.m. Feb. 20 with Mrs. Sheldon Bross.

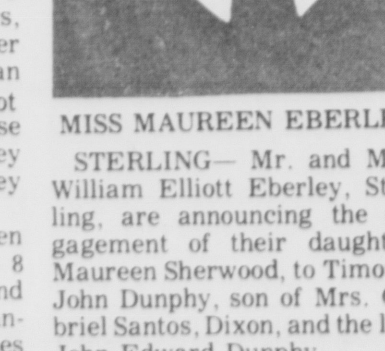

MISS MAUREEN EBERLEY
STERLING—Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott Eberley, Sterling, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Maureen Sherwood, to Timothy John Dunphy, son of Mrs. Gabriel Santos, Dixon, and the late John Edward Dunphy.

Miss Eberley, a graduate of Newman Central Catholic High School, received a B.A. degree in education at the University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz., and she is presently employed by the Sterling Education School District as a sixth grade teacher at the Coleta School.

Her fiancé, also a graduate of Newman Central Catholic High School, earned a B.S. degree at the University of Illinois.

MISS JUDY SULLIVAN

Miss Sullivan is bride-elect of Mr. Carlson

AMBOY — Valentine's Day has been selected as the date for the wedding of Miss Judy Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, Rt. 2, Amboy, and Randy Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Carlson, Rockford.

Miss Sullivan is a graduate of the school of nursing at Swedish American Hospital, Rockford, where she is presently employed as a registered nurse.

A 1969 graduate of Augustana College, Rock Island, Mr. Carlson is employed as a physical education instructor at Hoffman Middle School, Loves Park.

After Feb. 14 the couple will be residing at 5027 Forrest Grove, Loves Park.

Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge meets

Mrs. Billie Baker, noble grand of Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge, presided at a recent lodge meeting in IOOF hall when pro tem officers were Miss Gertrude Cornils and Mrs. Fannie Morris.

Mrs. Baker was installed for a second term as noble grand at a previous meeting by Mrs. Leona Spencer, acting district deputy president, and Miss Cornils, deputy marshal.

A communication was read from the Sovereign Grand Lodge, and a dispensation was read from the president of the Rebekah State Assembly, which permitted Mrs. Baker to serve a second term as noble grand while she is also serving as district deputy president.

A letter was read from the District 23 Odd Fellows inviting members to attend a scramble dinner at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 13 in the Sterling Lodge Hall.

Following the business meeting new officers for 1975 were installed by Mrs. Baker, district deputy president, and her staff Miss Cornils, Mrs. Clara Broughton, Mrs. Grace Sitter, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Ruth Lowe, and Miss Evelyn Roberts. Mrs. Erma Roberts acted as noble grand until Mrs. Baker assumed her station.

Installed were Mrs. Pearl Brooks, recording secretary; Miss Lillian Koerber, finance secretary; Mrs. Spencer, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Moore, warden; Mrs. Sitter, conductor; Mrs. Roberts, right supporter to the noble grand; Mrs. Helen Sodini, left supporter to the noble grand; Mrs. Broughton, chaplain; Miss Roberts, inside guardian; Miss Gail George, outside guardian, and Miss Cornils, right supporter to the vice grand.

Mrs. Spencer, vice president of the District Eight Association of Rebekahs, was elected delegate to the Rebekah State Assembly, and appointments made by Mrs. Baker included Mrs. Sitter and Mrs. Morris, visiting committee, and Mrs. Spencer, publicity.

Mrs. Sodini presented a gift to Mrs. Baker from her new officers, and pink floral arrangements and candles decorated the tables arranged for a social hour when refreshments were served by Mrs. Lorraine Ide, Mrs. Penny Sears and Mrs. Viola Bovey.

OES Parlor Club meeting

Members of the OES Parlor Club met Monday in the Masonic Temple for a dessert luncheon and card party.

Mrs. Harold Espy and Mrs. John Bowman were the afternoon's hostesses, and score prizes in bridge were won by Mrs. Earle Stitzel and Mrs. Clifford Cook.

Prize winners in canasta were Mrs. Alfred Tice, Mrs. Espy, Mrs. Ada Huyett and Mrs. Harry Lephien.

The next meeting was planned for 12:45 p.m. Feb. 3 in the temple when co-hostesses will be Mrs. Stitzel and Mrs. Stuart Allwood.

The Bermuda Cup

A cheat-proof bridge world series?

On Jan. 25, the world's bridge experts will meet in Bermuda to compete for the world championship of Bridge. Oswald Jacoby, who is generally regarded as the best bridge player of modern times, will be on hand to comment on the play.

As an introduction to the tournament, Jacoby has written a series which explains what the competitors are up against this year—some very strong measures to prohibit cheating and unethical conduct.

By OSWALD JACOBY
(First in a Series)

Thirty-six super egos from six continents meet Jan. 25 in Bermuda to determine which nation has the most brilliant, perceptive, shrewdest bridge players in all the world. It will take eight days, several hundred different hands and a truckload of cokes, cigarettes, iced tea, hot coffee, sandwiches and cigars before the smoke clears and the world champions walk off with the Bermuda Cup.

This year, for the first time, the World Bridge Federation has taken steps to prevent unethical practices or any form of hard-core cheating during the bidding. They seek to do this by placing a diagonal screen across each table during the bidding, so that no player can see his partner.

Bidding will be done mechanically. Two bids will be made on one side of the screen; a monitor will proceed to announce them; the players on the other side will make their bids, and so on until the bidding is completed. Then the opening lead will be made and the screen removed for the play.

I have seen these screens used successfully in final matches in this country. There is no question they slow the play a trifle, but the fact that they completely negate the possibility of unethical bidding has made them popular with the players.

Up to now the federation has refused to allow their use. The European members have claimed that they impugn the honor of the Italian Blue Team, which has dominated the world championship tournaments for almost 20 years.

Fortunately for all concerned, the Italians are well-coming the screens. Their contention is that they will be more than delighted to prove to any doubters that they do play honestly and win because they play better than anyone.

When the first official world championships began in 1950, the United States won the first four. In 1957 the Italians won their first world championship against the U.S. team. They won their second world championship in 1958, again at the expense of the United States. But this time it was different. Tobias Stone, one of the members of the U.S. team who has never been known for his placid, timid nature toward the game, charged the Italians with cheating. This started it all. Other members of the U.S. team later concurred in the charges. Tobias was finally censured by the American Contract Bridge League when no proof could be found.

In the years to follow, the Italian dominance of the world championship didn't help to quiet these unfounded suspicions.

Giorgio Belladonna, who was on the first Italian team to win the title in 1957, and Benito Garozzo, who joined the winning team in 1961, will defend their world title along with four new players. My son Jim and I have known Giorgio and Benito for 20 years. We have played with them and against them.

I played against both in the 1960 World Bridge Olympiad and Jim Jacoby was a member of the North American team in 1963 which played against the Italian Blue Team when Belladonna and Garozzo were playing. They may be the best pair in the world, certainly no one is any better.

The North American team in the 1975 world championship is Eddie Kantar, Bill Eisenberg, John Swanson, Paul Soloway, Bob Hamman and Bobby Wolff.

Alfred Sheinwald was selected as the nonplaying team captain. Already this has brought protests from the European bridge authorities. Some of the top North American authorities questioned his selection also. It wasn't until the Europeans asked for his removal that the North Americans insisted he must represent the U.S. team.

There is also a question whether the Australian team will join in the 1975 championship playoffs.

I would put the odds at 6-5 against the Italians, 5-2 against the North Americans (U.S.), 4-1 against the Europeans (France), 8-1 against the South Americans (Brazil), 100-1 against Asians (Indonesia), and 100-1 against Australia.

As an American, I hope the North American team wins the world championship this year. I have picked the Italian team because I feel Belladonna and Garozzo of the Blue Team are the greatest pair of players in the world today. I respect their outstanding bidding and brilliant play. The bidding screens should quiet once and for all the question of cheating by the Italian teams.

The month of January is traditionally the time when stores selling home furnishings have "white goods" sales. Non-automatic blankets are included in this category, along with sheets and pillowcases. With electric blankets being very popular now, a distinction needs to be made between the automatic and non-automatic.

What with fashion's influence and the changes in fiber content and construction of blankets, you may be in a dilemma as to which to buy.

Higher Costs
Blankets may cost more than previously, but the quality may also be better. Higher costs are due to higher costs for fibers, dye stuffs, bindings, and labor.

The cheaper rayon blends of former years are gone. The tight market stems from a shortage of basic textile fibers, both natural and man-made.

Nonwoven constructed blankets are known by the trade names of "Fiberwoven" and "Vellux."

Fiberwoven blankets are made by a process similar to needlepunch that makes the blanket warm and strong, shrink less and last longer than conventionally woven blankets. Some have a light cellular layer of polyester foam added for warmth without weight.

Vellux blankets are made of urethane by producing them under a patented process of laminating urethane foam on each side of a woven scrim fabric and flocking nylon fibers to the core. These blankets are soft, light weight and velvety. They are somewhat stiffer and have less drape than the conventional blankets or thermal-weave blankets.

Thermal-weave blankets have become quite popular and are identified by their honeycomb-like pattern. Their best claims are that they are durable and very light in weight. In a warm climate or under temperature-controlled conditions, the thermal blanket may be quite satisfactory for year round. In winter, a cover should be put on top of the thermal blanket so that air warmed by the body is trapped between the layers. In summer, omit the cover and the body heat escapes through the air cells in the blanket.

Give your blanket care. Don't purchase a blanket that is too small for the bed, especially when covering two people. The stress from pulling causes wear and reduces the life of the blanket, and don't store blankets under heavy weights that flatten the nap.

A very light-weight wool blanket may be just as warm or warmer than heavy tightly woven felted ones. Blankets vary in weight from two to five pounds for a double size.

Testing by Consumers Union shows that as a group, conventionally woven acrylic blankets were warmest, urethane and conventionally woven wools were next and thermal-weave were least warm.

Blankets are made of acrylic, nylon, cotton, polyester or wool and blends of these fibers. Blends are of acrylic and polyester, wool and acrylic.

Acrylic fibers are known by the tradenames of "Acrilan, Creslan, and Orlon" blankets that look like wool blankets but are lighter in weight than wool of the same thickness. They have the advantages over wool in that they are easy to wash, resist moth damage, and cost less.

Trade Names
Polyester blankets are known by the trade names of "Dacron and Fortrel" that have been on the market for a relatively short time. Like the acrylics, they are easy to care for, but are more likely to pill.

When purchasing a blanket, check the size needed by measuring the mattress, allowing for its thickness and add tuck-in, about six inches at the foot and on each side. Blankets usually come in the following sizes: Twin, 66 inches by 90 inches; double, 80 inches by 90 inches; queen, 90 inches by 90 inches; and king, 108 inches by 90 inches.

Test the quality of a blanket by holding it up to a strong light. Thick and thin spots indicate poor construction. Also look to see that the blanket has been cut straight and the ends run parallel to the crosswise yarns.

Give your blanket care. Don't purchase a blanket that is too small for the bed, especially when covering two people. The stress from pulling causes wear and reduces the life of the blanket, and don't store blankets under heavy weights that flatten the nap.

Public broadcasting may get satellite programming

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — By 1978, the nation's public TV stations could start receiving national programs directly from a domestic satellite instead of over the current system of telephone lines, a top public TV executive says.

But three major hurdles lie ahead, says Hartford Gunn Jr., president of the Public Broadcasting Service. He says before PBS adopts a national satellite transmission plan it must: — First decide if such a plan is technically or financially feasible. This now is being studied in a $140,000 research project which Gunn says may be finished in late June or early July.

—Then decide whether to finance other research — which may cost up to $800,000 — on where to best locate satellite ground receiver units for public TV stations. Ideally, PBS would like one unit at each of the 152 public TV licensees in the continental U.S., Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

—Finally vote either to "stop the project on grounds of costs or whatever" or proceed with a national TV-by-satellite transmission system which would entail spending up to $30 million to equip stations with their own ground receiver units.

Ways of financing the massive start-up costs of the system currently are under study, but the most attractive way probably would be to borrow the money, Gunn said.

He said it's unlikely PBS would seek an appropriation for the system from Congress "because we're already trying to get a long-range funding bill and I think this would just complicate that."

If PBS voted at the end of 1975 to adopt a satellite system, he added, it would take at least two years to get it into operation.

He said a basic reason for considering satellite transmission is the rising cost of land lines now used to nationally distribute PBS programs.

38½ of his 40 years spent in jails

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Bobby Ferguson has spent all but 20 months of his 40 years in institutions. And he says he didn't care for the little bit of freedom he did have.

Now he's about to be freed again from the Iowa State Penitentiary here. Warden Lou Brewer has his misgivings, but Ferguson says he's a changed man and intends to prove it at the home of an Iowa farm couple.

Ferguson's mother was an inmate in the Iowa Women's Reformatory when he was born, and he says he's searched in vain for his parents.

After birth, he was taken to Woodward State Hospital where he spent the next 14 years as a ward of the court.

From then on, Ferguson says, he committed a succession of crimes to keep him in institutions where he feels secure and has friends.

A year ago he was finishing a 10-year stretch for armed robbery and escape when he asked Gov. Robert Ray to give him a life sentence so he could remain "in the only home I've known."

But Ray arranged for Ferguson to become a prison janitor when he was paroled last Feb. 18. Ray said the continuing association with the prison might ease some of the social pressures for Ferguson.

But Ferguson broke parole after three weeks, wandered clandestinely around Iowa for a couple of months and was returned to prison.

"For me, it is all over," Ferguson told The Associated Press in a letter after he was jailed again. "I tried to work, but other people wouldn't let me. Now I want to do life or die. 'I wish hanging were in effect, because I would ask to be hung.'"

Today Ferguson says he sees it differently and says he'll find new hope on the 260-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meyer near Ottumwa.

"They've adopted me," Ferguson says. "Not a legal adoption, but I hope to make it that way."

But Mrs. Meyer says: "We haven't talked with him, just corresponded. We want to get in touch and talk, but I don't suppose that will change our plans because we've already promised he could come here."

Ferguson is due to be released Feb. 7.

Ferguson says former prisoners "can get a job, then go to their empty apartment. But that doesn't do it. You've got to have people who care. I've got to make this work. I can't sit back and hope."

Mrs. Meyer, who says she and her husband "are near the age of Bobby's own parents," have a married daughter who lives in Illinois.

"I feel Bobby has responded to this parental thing, where he didn't respond to others," Mrs. Meyer says.

Rockford West rallies to beat Dixon

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

When Casey missed the third strike that fatal day in Mudville, no joy was observed in the town the remainder of the evening. After approximately 8:20 p.m., Tuesday, there was no joy in Dixon except for a group of volleyball players from Rockford West.

For the Warrior girls had just defeated Dixon in the Illinois High School Association Supersectional match to earn the right to advance to the quarterfinal round at Charleston on Friday. Dixon took the first game 1-10 behind seven service points by Kathy Cook, but West rallied to win the second game 15-6 and the decisive contest 15-7.

It was team balance that keyed the Warrior triumph, the 19th win in 21 decisions for the visitors thus far in the season. Barb Runne was the star of the service points by picking up 16 for the three games. Runne accounted for six of the 10 points West got in the opening game loss, seven in the second game and three in the final contest.

Runne was one of a trio of West players with three service points in the last game, while three more members contributed two points each. The Warriors were matched only once (at 1-1) in the decisive game, upped a 6-3 lead to 9-3 on one point by Debbie Patterson and two by Sheryl Johnson and increased it to 12-4 behind one point by Runne and a pair by Glenda Kemp.

Illegal hits by Dixon accounted for five points by West in the title game and three more in the second game when the Warriors assumed a 10-0 lead as Runne had five and Johnson three of the points. Dixon also fell behind in the opening game and was down 6-1 before righting itself with six consecutive points as Mary Gridley collected a pair of service markers and Cook got four.

Two of Cook's points came on spikes by Rosemary Smith and another on a net violation by the Warriors. West rallied for two points to take an 8-7 lead, but a Smith serve that could not be returned knotted it at 8-8. Langenfeld's serve made it 9-8 before the Warriors tied the game for the final time as Smith's return was too long.

But Cook got the service back with a spike that nicked the endline and Dixon pulled away with five straight points, including a spike by Jacqui Bogott. The Warriors raced to a 10-0 lead in the second game as Johnson notched three service points. Runne tipped in a shot to get the serve back and then added five markers with the score mounting to 8-0 as West's Kim Abbott spiked a return shot.

The teams traded serves until Abbott made it 10-0 as Patterson set up a tip by Johnson and Smith hit a return shot out of bounds. Dixon finally broke into the scoring column as Donna Pinegar hit on two consecutive serves.

Patterson retaliated with a pair of service points to make it 12-2, with Kemp spiking one. Runne made it 14-2 with a tip by Kemp and another Dixon return that was too long. Dixon came back as Bogott notched points on three successive serves. One hit the back line, another was tipped over by Cook and the third was returned out of bounds.

An illegal hit by West made it 14-6 on Cook's serve, but Runne assisted on a spike by Kemp to finish it. Dixon had the first serve in the third game but blasted a return into the crowd to turn over the ball. West took a 1-0 lead on an illegal hit but Dixon tied it up as a Warrior entwined herself in the net trying for a return.

Four more illegal hits helped make it 9-3 in favor of the visitors before Abbott spiked in two consecutive points for the Warriors, one on a set-up by Johnson. Dixon got back to 12-6 and 14-7 but West took the match as Patterson's serve was too hard to handle.

Abbott and Johnson finished with seven service points apiece to back up Runne's 16. Johnson had one in the first game and three in the other two. Abbott's stats were a pair each in the opening two games and three more in the decisive game. Patterson ended with five on three in the second game and two in game three.

Cook paced Dixon with 10 points, seven coming in the first game. Bogott had five, with three and two in the final two games. Smith got five, with three in game one and two in the last game. Mary Gridley added three and Pinegar had a trio. Langenfeld got two and Colleen Smith failed to score in the final game. Dixon finished the season with a 16-7 mark.

KATHY COOK (21) of Dixon spikes a return over the net during the second game of the Supersectional contest at Lancaster Gymnasium Tuesday night. Cook's return went for naught, however, as Rockford West jumped to a 10-0 lead and won the game 15-6. Dixon's Mary Gridley looks on. (Telegraph Photo)

Police hold suspect in NFL drug ring

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis police have withheld comment on a 40-page intra-department memorandum outlining a young woman's allegations that she participated in a ring supplying drugs to players in the National Football League.

A copy of the memorandum was obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press from radio station KMOX. The St. Louis station said it received its copy from a law enforcement official.

Police would only say that the 19-year-old woman "is confined" and declined to further discuss the case.

The report sent to top police officials said that Roxie Ann Rice told of her activities while she was being questioned about her alleged use of a credit card stolen from defensive back Ken Houston of the Washington Redskins. Miss Rice was arrested Jan. 4 on fraud charges and was still in jail Tuesday night.

Among the NFL teams mentioned in the report were the Houston Oilers, St. Louis Cardinals, San Diego Chargers, Detroit Lions, Kansas City Chiefs, Cincinnati Bengals and the Redskins.

NFL Executive Director Jim Kensi said only that "there's nothing in what she has said that has been substantiated in any way."

A spokesman for the Cardinals said the team had informed the NFL security division of the report. He denied any knowledge of Miss Rice's activities.

Officials of the Chiefs and Chargers were unavailable for comment. Houston officials said they knew nothing of the allegations and therefore would have no comment, and a spokesman for the Lions said: "We have no comment. We have no idea what it's all about."

Joe Blair, a spokesman for the Redskins, said team officials "don't know anything about it." And he called the allegations "unbelievable, fantastic."

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, said, "This is the first I've heard of it. I wouldn't want to comment on it until I know more about it.

"Football's just like the rest of society," he said. "We've probably got some problems too."

Miss Rice reportedly told officers that she transported briefcases to a number of NFL cities and was met by contacts whom she identified as NFL players. She said that inside the briefcases she found packages with names on them and, on one occasion, was given a bag in which she found marijuana, the report said.

She said she was given false identification and was told to pretend she was a medical student from Ghana, learning

Ohio wins 79-55

OHIO — The Ohio Bulldogs shattered a 13-13 tie by outscoring the Manlius Red Devils 24-17 in the second quarter to post a 79-55 Bureau Valley Conference basketball win, here, Tuesday night.

Jim Ryan pumped home eight points in the second stanza for the Bulldogs, who upped their Bureau Valley record to 3-0 with the victory. A pair of turnovers in the final 10 seconds of the half led to two Ohio baskets, to stretch the Bulldog advantage to seven points.

The Bulldogs put the game away by holding the visitors scoreless for the opening 4:30 of the second half and held a 20-6 advantage in the third quarter as Jim Brandau accounted for eight points. Al Dremann added six and Ryan four in the frame. Brandau finished with 20 to Miss Rice told police the names of players, when she stayed with them, what kinds of cars they drove and where they lived, the report said.

The report also quoted Miss Rice as telling police that members of some teams told her they were buying drugs for their team. She said she was once asked if she could provide cocaine, but that she told a player all she could offer was pills and marijuana.

Rich East defeated Hinsdale Central 16-15 and 15-5 while Red Bud downed Granite City South 15-13 and 15-3. Rockford West dropped a 15-10 decision to Dixon but rallied for 15-6 and 15-7 triumphs to win the Dixon Supersectional.

Sport Notes

Men's basketball tournament

The Illinois Heart Association is sponsoring a men's basketball tournament. Games will be played on Sunday afternoons, starting Jan. 26.

The tournament is open to any team in the area; all players must be over 18 years of age. Entry fee is $40 per team, with all proceeds going to the Heart Association and trophies will be awarded to the winning teams.

To register for the tourney send captain's name, address and phone number along with roster (including ages of players), team name and entry fee to: Joe Koenig, Box 65, Dixon, Ill. 61021.

Entry deadline is Jan. 20. Sixteen teams minimum must be registered by that date. Call 284-2965 or 284-6605 for further information.

Witzleb pins Guzzo

MOLINE — Iowa Heavyweight Jim Witzleb pinned Don Guzzo of Black Hawk in 1:25 to turn a 21-18 deficit into a 24-21 victory for the Hawkeyes, here, Tuesday night in a junior varsity college wrestling match.

Witzleb, former Dixon High School state title winner, brought his team the win after Iowa had fallen behind by six points early, via two forfeited matches. Witzleb is coached by former Olympic star Dan Gable.

Ticket information

Tickets for the basketball game to be played in Geneseo Friday will go on sale in Lancaster Gym lobby Thursday and Friday from 7:50 to 8:15 a.m. and Thursday from 3:35 to 4 p.m.

Tickets are: Adults, $1.50, and students, 75 cents.

Fencing marathon

Kathy Faley and the fencing team of Dixon High School will benefit from a fencing marathon to be staged at Lancaster Gymnasium on Saturday beginning at 6 p.m. and lasting till 10.

Faley, 15 and a sophomore at DHS, will be competing in the National Junior Olympics at Portland, Ore., on Feb. 14-15. The marathon will be utilized both to raise money for her trip and to help finance the fencing club at DHS. A total of six fencers will battle for the four hours and sponsors will pay for each touch recorded by one of the participants.

Those who wish to make donations can either stop by the marathon or contact a member of the DHS Fencing Club.

Balanced scoring aids Walnut

WALNUT — Four players were in double figures as the Walnut Blue Raiders pounded the Tampico Trojans 61-41, here, Tuesday night in a Bureau Valley Conference basketball game. Walnut upped its record to 2-1 in the Bureau Valley with the win while Tampico falls to 1-4.

'Staggering inflation in caseloads' to relieve courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the nation's appeals courts falling farther and farther behind in their work, a proposal to hire staff lawyers to give the judges a hand has stirred up controversy.

The plan will be discussed at a four-day National Conference on Appellate Justice, opening Thursday in San Diego, Calif., under auspices of the National Center for State Courts and the Federal Judicial Center.

The conference is being held against a backdrop of what its sponsors call a "staggering inflation in caseload" in appeals courts.

In the New Jersey Appellate Division, for example, the number of appeals rose from roughly 1,000 in 1960 to more than 3,500 in the 1971-72 term.

From 1960 to 1970, appeals filed in the 11 U.S. Circuit Courts of Appeal increased 200 per cent, while the number of cases filed in the first place rose only 50 per cent.

Nobody seems to know why so many more cases are being appealed. A memorandum from the National Center for State Courts suggests that population increase, changes in laws and changes in public attitudes have played a part.

Whatever the causes, the courts have been unable to keep up. The median time for handling appeals in the federal circuit courts in fiscal 1974 was seven months and in many state appeals courts it is longer.

The National Center launched a four-state project in 1972 to test whether using a central staff of lawyers would help. Courts in Nebraska, Virginia, Illinois and New Jersey were chosen for the experiment.

The results have been reported by Daniel J. Meador, University of Virginia Law School professor and director of the project, in a volume distributed in advance of the conference.

Meador concludes that a court with such a staff can be more productive without the judges losing control over the decision-making process.

Not everybody agrees. "I am profoundly aware of the state of the workload pressure motivating courts into this pattern, but I am against yielding to that pressure," says U.S.

Circuit Judge George Clifton Edwards Jr. of Detroit.

"I think judicial decision-making should be done by judges. I do not think memoranda prepared by staff attorneys should ever appear as the order or opinion of the court."

The argument is not a new one. There have been charges from time to time that some U.S. Supreme Court justices and other jurists have relied more heavily on their law clerks than they should.

Only last year the Supreme Court ruled that some federal judges were going too far in their reliance on magistrates, a type of judicial assistant authorized by Congress in 1968. The court ruled 7 to 2 that magistrates could not hold evidentiary hearings in habeas corpus cases.

The Judicial Conference of the United States, in its meeting last fall, agreed reluctantly to allow the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco to add to the staff of attorneys it has been using to screen cases.

The official report on the conference's closed meeting says it "deliberated at length" before agreeing to the request. The conference contends that the real need is for more judges, but this requires approval of Congress.

The fear of some judges is that more hired help will make the appeals courts like some regulatory boards and commissions, whose members merely ratify decisions which have been worked out by the staff.

Staff attorneys in the pilot project screened cases to determine how they should be handled, wrote memoranda on cases to summarize them for the judges and drafted opposed opinions.

Edwards says there is good reason for circuit courts to have staff assistants in screening out frivolous appeals, but this "should be the outside limit of the staff function."

Meador argues: "Ultimately we depend on the integrity of the judge and his faithfulness to his judicial responsibilities."

TIGERS IN THE TANK are tame stuff compared to a cougar in the driver's seat. Sundance is the name, bred and owned by Joe Williams of Sharon, Pa. So the time has run out on the parking meter — who's going to argue?

Spacecraft landing on Mars among Bicentennial projects

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

A spacecraft will land on Mars. In Missouri a giant goose monument will be erected. Twenty-four Hawaiians will paddle a wooden canoe to Tahiti. Artists will attempt to best one another at wrapping public buildings in red, white and blue bunting.

What those events—and a lengthening list of 3,000 or so other projects, productions and observances—have in common is the celebration of the 200th anniversary of American independence.

It promises to be the biggest, and sometimes most bizarre, birthday party ever.

The arrival of the spacecraft and the Hawaiians are timed for July 4, 1976. But between now and then, and often after, Americans will mark the country's passage into its third century with enough ingenuity to embarrass Ben Franklin.

In Yankton, S.D., it's a chance to eradicate Dutch Elm blight, while for Georgia, it's an opportunity to make treatment for social disease more available.

But not all the affairs are off-beat. The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration catalogue lists hundreds of more conventional undertakings, but the sheer variety makes them amazing.

Take as mundane a project as restoration. Here is a modest list of things Americans are reclaiming from their past:

Railway depots, trains, airplanes, log cabins, taverns, inns, villages, forts, covered bridges, cemeteries, missions, mansions, adobes, churches, barns, courthouses, jailhouses, meeting houses, town houses, ranch houses, opera houses, schoolhouses, milk houses, roundhouses, stagecoach houses, firehouses, an Indian winter pit house, George Washington's summer house, the house where Thomas Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence, Independence Hall, a company store, a water wheel, a mint, a market, a canal, a hardware store, a blacksmith shop, Washington's grist mill, a pipe organ, a corn crib, paintings, sailing ships and an island.

Hundreds of publications will be printed, miles of markers erected, even more miles of film made, dramas performed, concerts given, and even forests planted—1,776 trees in Bera, Calif., alone.

There is also a renewed interest in flags. Every South Dakota farm family will be urged to fly the Republic's banner. In Alaska, a "free standing concrete monument" to the state ensign will be raised by a Seward group. Two hundred examples of native American art, each bearing Old Glory or a patriotic motif, will be displayed in Flint, Mich. But perhaps the most encompassing plan is New York City's "The Flag as Art: Open competition, exhibit in any medium, earthworks, painting a flag of flowers, wrapping public buildings in bunting."

In fact, the shot heard round the world has ricocheted down the centuries to detonate an art explosion. The New York City Ballet will perform "The Birds of North America," a work based on the life of naturalist John James Audubon. A New York theater group offers three plays on "America's obsession with money." And a rock musical, "Spirit of '76," is billed as a "fantasmagorical judgement of the 200th anniversary...a short history of flood and craze..."

And at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Edgar Allan Poe's poem "The Conqueror Worm" is being scored for symphony.

Provincials in Barre, Vt. will respond with a National Old Time Fiddlers' Contest; in Anaheim, Calif. with the 25th Annual Square Dance Convention.

Nevada's most famous Indian basketweaver, Dat-So-La-Lee, will be remembered with a monument. Twelve Nebraskan sculptors are commissioned for works to be displayed at Interstate 80 rest stops "to enhance the natural character of each location." The Wild Goose Capital of the World, Summer, Mo., offers a permanent, giant goose memorial.

Civic improvements also flourish in places like Columbia, Mo. where the fire hydrants will be red, white and blue, and in Denver where a bi-centennial sewer and municipal bond issue is planned. The Gateway City of South Dakota, Hot Springs, is building a real gateway of stone.

Gregarious epicurians may be glad of the Louisiana Crawfish Festival at Breau Bridge, the annual Community Buffalo Supper and Get-Together in Gary, S.D., and the Republic of Texas Chili Championship, also called the Chilimpiad, at San Marcos.

You can work off the calories in Charleston, S.C. on Bicentennial Jogging Day, or, for non-palefaces, with a round in the All-Indian Golf Tournament at Cortez, Colo. If you're too old for that stuff there's the Truth or Consequences National Shuffleboard Championship in New Mexico, "a bicentennial affair to attract senior citizens."

Sailors won't want to miss Operation Sail, an Atlantic assemblage of square-riggers from 30 countries. But if they do, William Banning of landlocked Denver may show you the 1876 replica windjammer he's building to sail on a reservoir.

If you haven't got your sea legs, Alexandria, Va. has some more earth offerings. There 18th and 19th century wells and privies are being plumbed for artifacts which will reveal "exact details of the quality of life" in those days.

Flushing, N.Y. hosts a Horticultural Fly-In. Plants from all over the world will be flown in for the exhibition.

The pace may be a little frantic for our placid, Polynesian possessions, so Guam is urging Guamanians on the mainland to forget the whole thing and come home.

Obviously, some Americans spent not a little effort on the problem of finding new ways to commemorate the occasion, but in Comstock, Nev. they have a simple solution. They're going to have the same parade they had in 1876 for the nation's 100th birthday.

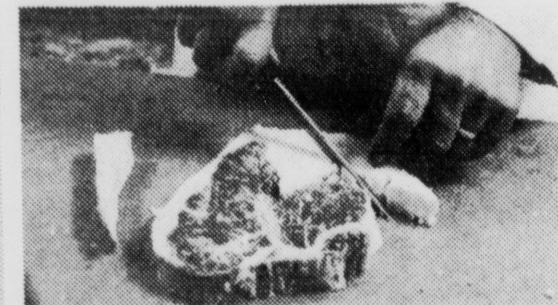

ONLY security against inflation for most Americans, stated AFL-CIO President George Meany, is their jobs.

Blake wasted as Baretta

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Boy, I feel sorry for Robert Blake, a fine actor who first gained national acclaim in the film, "In Cold Blood." He's being wasted tonight in the opening segment of "Baretta" on ABC-TV.

"Baretta" is a semi-new series about an undercover cop with a variety of disguises. It's a retooled version of last year's "Toma" series with Tony Musante, who decamped from the show after a season.

The main difference between "Toma" and "Baretta" is that Musante portrayed a married cop and Blake portrays an unmarried one.

True, he does want to give up the bachelor life — "I got a neat idea, darlin', let's get married," he tells Madlyn Rhue, cast as his true love — but two things intervene: — She'd prefer that they just live together for a while.

—While on a date with him, she's accidentally slain by three hoods an evil numbers racketeer has hired to dispatch detective Baretta. The gentleman is only slightly wounded in the gunning and vows vengeance.

Earlier, we learn Baretta has been trying to nail the racketeer anyway, only to be foiled by the incompetence of the cop's colleagues.

Baretta initially doesn't know who ordered the shooting that ruined a perfectly good date. But he learns after trapping a pursuing gungsel in a bathroom and repeatedly dunking the hood's head in a water-filled sink as a means of gaining information.

The detective then kidnaps the racketeer, takes him to a deserted lot, fires two shots which narrowly miss the thug, and says that's just a taste of things to come. He also says he'll eventually kill him.

When Baretta's superior learns of this, he orders all points bulletin put out on his hot tempered officer.

"Tell him to put his APB where the sun never shines," Baretta growls when advised of this development by a friend (Tom Ewell).

The friend also warns that not only has racketeer put out a second murder contract on Baretta, but also has complained to police about the caper in the deserted lot. It makes no difference. Baretta, having committed kidnapping, assault with a deadly weapon, car theft and unauthorized hood-dunking, goes on to commit a second death threat, armed robbery of illegal cash and entrapment.

All this may become clear if you stick with the show, in which you'll also see Baretta disguised as an Egyptian waiter, a parking lot attendant, a barber and two variations of a bum — standing and sleeping. And you will find that Baretta's transgressions, apparently because they're part of a worthy cause, are mysteriously forgiven by his superiors when the top hood is proven a coward and captured.

"You little punk," the hood snarls at Baretta after a fire escape fistfight, "I'll be out in less than a year."

So will this series unless the writing drastically improves.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, January 22, the 22nd day of 1975. There are 343 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1901, England came to the end of an era with the death of Queen Victoria at the age of 82.

On this date — In 1517, Turkish troops captured the Egyptian city of Cairo.

In 1528, England and France declared war on the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V.

In 1791, George Washington appointed commissioners to survey the District of Columbia.

In 1905, scores of Russians were killed as Cossacks and imperial army troops fired on demonstrators in St. Petersburg in Russia.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a League of Nations.

In 1944, during World War II, Allied troops landed on the Anzio beachhead in Italy.

Ten years ago: Hundreds of Buddhists and students stoned the U.S. Information Service library in Saigon and battled with Vietnamese police who tried to drive them away.

Five years ago: President Nixon, in his State of the Union Message, urged the nation to stick with him in dealing with the Vietnam War.

One year ago: A White House spokesman said Nixon was ignoring demands that he resign and was determined not to be "consumed for another year" by Watergate.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana is 47 years old. Actress Ann Sothern is 64.

Only one of 10 children survive

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Charlotte and Alvin Lange wanted a family of two girls and two boys. But when Mrs. Lange failed to conceive, they said they felt it was "the end of everything, of all our hoping."

Then they learned that Mrs. Lange could bear children with the help of the drug Pergonal. She bore quadruplets. None survived.

She bore sextuplets less than 13 months later. Only one survived.

"I ask why it happened to us, why twice?" Mrs. Lange said in an interview. "Alvin always tells me life comes with no guarantees. We're not too religious, but we both believe things happen because God makes them. Without that belief we'd be in trouble because there wouldn't be anything that could help us understand."

Mrs. Lange, 26, never saw the quadruplets who died shortly after birth Nov. 23, 1973. She has held only one of her 10 babies — Jolene Rene, the sole surviving sextuplet born Dec. 8, 1974.

Jolene is gradually strengthening her grasp on life with intensive care at Valley Medical Center here. The Langes say they have been told they may be able to bring her home by March.

"Children fulfill a marriage," Mrs. Lange said, looking spry and rosy-cheeked despite her recent ordeal. "Even with a good marriage like ours there's always something lacking. We felt the two of us would be able to give something to children, to provide a good home."

Mrs. Lange said she is considering taking a fertility drug again.

Her husband, a $12,500-a-year armored car guard, said they would rather try to have another baby on their own before they would consider adopting.

"We want more children," said Lange, 31, who was an adopted child. He said they have not consulted an adoption agency, but they talked with friends familiar with the process and decided it was too long and complicated.

Dr. Vincent Nola, Mrs. Lange's obstetrician, said by the time she is ready for a third pregnancy new techniques may be available to help avert another multiple birth.

"She is a healthy woman," he said in an interview. "There is no reason for her not to go through another pregnancy."

The last previously reported sextuplets were born Jan. 11, 1974, to a Cape Town, South Africa woman after a full-term pregnancy, and the last in the United States were those of the Eugene Staneks of Lakewood, Colo. Five of the Staneks sextuplets survived. Mrs. Stanek also used a fertility drug.

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:
• defects in material or workmanship,
• normal road hazard failure,
• premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining),
Montgomery Ward will:
1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorated charge based on mileage used.
Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.
For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.
Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.
Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

True Cost.

It makes the Datsun 710
an even better buy.

710 2-Door Sedan

Don't be fooled by a low sticker price. The true cost of any car is the price equipped the way you want it. Some cars come practically stripped. But the Datsun 710 comes with many standard features other cars charge extra for. Other things to consider are low gasoline cost, upkeep, repairs, and Datsun's high resale value. Test-drive the 710 today!

Look at all you get!

- 1800cc overhead cam engine
- 4-speed stick shift
- Power-assist front disc brakes
- Fully reclining bucket seats
- Tinted glass
- Vinyl upholstery
- Full carpeting
- Multi-speed windshield wipers
- White-walls
- Full wheel covers
- Single key locking
- Electric clock
- Trip odometer
- And lots more!

For Thursday, Jan. 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You'll have second thoughts about something you felt you hastily agreed to. However, it will work out ok.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
With any commercial transactions today, be careful the price isn't raised once the deal is set.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You'll have to be on guard so you won't unintentionally slight a friend by excluding her from an activity with another pal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't embarrass yourself by seeking a favor of one whom you feel is likely to turn you down.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Your self-discipline will be well in hand for most of the day, but as the evening wears on you'll grow a little too lax.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your present aims can be satisfied without resorting to methods that you wouldn't be proud to tell others of.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Someone will be giving you a good idea that you should apply in total. For some reason you'll dilute its potential.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
It's time to remind a certain party of an obligation long overdue. Be prepared to counter some flimsy excuses.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You're apt to misinterpret the motives of one who is very co-operative. It's not like you to be this suspicious without cause.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
It wouldn't be wise to gossip with co-workers about something the boss told you in confidence. Keep this matter secret.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You're reasonably safe in taking chances on things today that are well thought-out. Press beyond a calculated risk and the string will snap.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You will create problems if you expect more than you're entitled to from a venture. Share fairly.

your birthday
Jan. 23, 1975

Knowledge gained through association will be put to profitable use this year. You will assume a management role that will give you greater responsibilities, greater returns.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-657: Catherine Manning is the dynamic Executive Secretary of the tax-exempt Ivy Cancer Research Foundation. "Dr. Crane," she telephoned, "I wish you could arrange your schedule so you could fly to Los Angeles."
"Of the International Association of Cancer Victims and Friends is holding a convention there."
"And they have been urging me to get you out there to discuss our foundation's work."
"Can't you PLEASE fly out there Saturday to give a talk at 4 p.m. and another at 8 p.m., for you could get back to Chicago the very next day?"
FDA Dictators
So I consented and said I'd speak at 4 p.m. on the topic: "Let's Stop FDA Dictatorship."
For the Food and Drug Administration is a typical bureaucracy that plays politics to persuade the taxpayers that it merits ever increasing billions to spend.

Thus, to rate headlines it ruined many cranberry producers a few years ago just before Thanksgiving by its dire predictions about cranberry juice.
Yet, just a few weeks later, it lamely admitted that we could have drunk all the cranberry juice we wanted without ill effects!
Likewise, it vetoed artificial sweeteners, plus many innocuous health foods and even attacked my digest of the biochemists' view that if you drink a little sea water, its 44 water-soluble trace chemicals MAY help combat deficiency diseases.
"There is nothing in the sea of ANY chemical value," it then pontificated in the public print, which was the most asinine report it ever released!
For Morris Fishbein, brilliant medical editor, recently listed 14 of those 44 ocean chemicals that are now admitted as ESSENTIAL for good health!

And more are being acknowledged every year!
So I always welcome a chance to needle the bureaucratic FDA.
Remember, after physicians and hospitals charge you $10,000 to $25,000 for futile cancer surgery, X rays, cobalt, etc., yet then send you home as a hopeless terminal cancer victim, saying you have only a few weeks more to live, why shouldn't you laymen try some other simple measures? What have you to lose?
Despite the best medical treatment in hospitals nowadays, and approved by FDA, over 1,000 of you Americans still will die of cancer this very day, plus another 1,000 tomorrow and onward throughout the year, for that's the present death rate IN SPITE OF DOC-TORS AND HOSPITALS!

"But if people try other remedies than ours," is the typical AMA reply, "they may delay proper treatment from us members of the AMA and then it will be too late."
As a member of the AMA myself, I realize that such a statement is a form of patient intimidation, for even if the cancer patients come to the bona fide M.D. EARLY, at least 1,000 still will die every day!
And when official doctors of the AMA have failed to save you, after draining you of may-be all your lifelong savings on futile cancer treatment, why deny the dying victims a final chance at recovery, especially when its cost is negligible?
Dr. Andrew C. Ivy's famous horse blood hormone has thus saved many of these terminal patients, and that's about the only type he gets to treat, namely, hopeless cases that modern medicine has given up to die after exhaustive surgery, X ray and cobalt have failed!
Yet the FDA is in a pathological panic lest Dr. Ivy's Carcalon be used to save such dying cancer patients! Why?
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— More than a year ago I suffered a massive stroke and heart attack. Today I am still paralyzed on my left side. My left arm and left leg refuse to function so I cannot walk and cannot bend my elbow. I take blood thinner pills for my heart and all manner of vitamins which are to heal my joints from the inside out.

Can you suggest any other remedies to rid me of my paralysis? Would liniments and salves help to limber my joints?

DEAR READER— It would certainly be wonderful if there were a way to solve the type of problem you have. When a stroke causes paralysis it means that the brain cells that controlled the movement have been damaged or destroyed.

The leg moves when you want it to move because of a complex electrical circuit. The nerve to and from the muscles in your legs all plug into a central switchboard in the brain. When you literally burn out the connections in the switchboard the circuit no longer works. Those connections in the switchboard are vital brain cells involved in the movements.

Brain cells cannot regenerate.

ate. A cut nerve in the arm can grow with time but cells in the brain cannot be replaced. There is some encouraging work demonstrating the ability of other brain cells to take over the switchboard function. In other words, the cells that used to handle just the information from the arm may be able to also handle the information from the left leg. In these instances a return to function is possible. We can't do this yet in humans. The nearest thing to that being done is reeducating people to speak when they have lost their speech from a stroke. The brain literally develops a new speech center with time, patience and much practice.

Your story illustrates why strokes must be prevented, if at all possible. The same disease that causes heart attacks also causes strokes. No one wants to be disabled, as you know.

Various exercises, heat and physical therapy can do a lot to prevent further loss of function in some cases after a stroke. These methods can also help some in learning to use new muscles to improve body function. But these treatments can't replace the damaged brain cells.

Salves and liniments may make your muscles feel better but don't expect them to solve your basic problem. The vitamins may be helpful to maintain good nutrition for you, but they won't do anything for the damaged brain cells that control your arm and leg either.

Incidentally, in some strokes people have temporary paralysis that clears as the initial swelling of the damaged brain cells disappear and the function of the remaining live cells is returned. So, no one should despair about a stroke until after a period of time has lapsed to permit full recovery.
